

WORKSHOP IV

India-U.S. Geo-Political Relations: Past, Present and Future

26 September
2022

Monday

1800-1930 hrs (IST)
0830-1000 hrs (EST)

Virtual

DIPANJAN ROY CHAUDHURY

Diplomatic Editor
The Economic Times
(Moderator)

BIPUL CHATTERJEE

Executive Director
CUTS International
(Vote of Thanks)

LT. GEN. D. S. HOODA (Retd.)

Senior Fellow for Military Strategy
Delhi Policy Group

RAYMOND E. VICKERY

Senior Adviser
Albright Stonebridge Group

ANIT MUKHERJEE

Associate Professor
S Rajaratnam School of International Studies (RSIS)

The past 75 years have witnessed significant shifts across the various sectors in India-U.S. relations from India's non-alignment during the cold-war era but coming together for UN peace keeping missions, to becoming major defense partners. This fostering relationship between the two great democracies is essential to global peace, security, stability and prosperity. Therefore, the objective of this workshop is to take stock of geo-political relations that India and the U.S. have embarked upon at present, and what the way forward should look like.

